Question of the Day-SLAA Journal

The Journal is the magazine of S.L.A.A. with stories and artwork by members from around the world sharing their experience, strength and hope. The Journal is like a meeting in print. Every issue the Journal asks a question. For instance, today's question is: “Do you find it difficult to live in/see reality? What helps you stay out of Fantasyland?” If you would like to contribute to a future issue of the Journal, please submit your response to the question of the day via e-mail to journal@slaafws.org.

The ‘40 Questions’ Committee-We Need Your Input

Remember when you first walked into a SLAA meeting and read the 40 Questions Pamphlet? Do you remember if they made sense to you or if the questions were appropriate? Well, depending on how long ago you first walked into the rooms, will determine if the 40 questions were more or less meaningful to you. You see, the “40 Questions for Self Diagnosis” were written back in 1986, when the understanding of Sex and Love addiction was in its infancy. Twenty eight years ago, there was no internet, no smart phones, no streaming videos, no understanding of co-dependency, no awareness of sexual anorexia, or texting, etc. Today, the Greater Delaware Intergroup believes the 40 questions pamphlet needs to be updated with more appropriate questions for our time. However, the thought processes and the impact of the Original 40 Questions must be maintained. We have formed a ‘40 Questions’ Committee and are looking for your help and input so that we can present some new questions for review and possible vote at this year’s Annual Business Meeting. Visit our website: <http://www.slaadvi.org> to find out how to participate in our 40 Questions Committee, or get involved in the many other activities that we sponsor. In service, Michael S.
